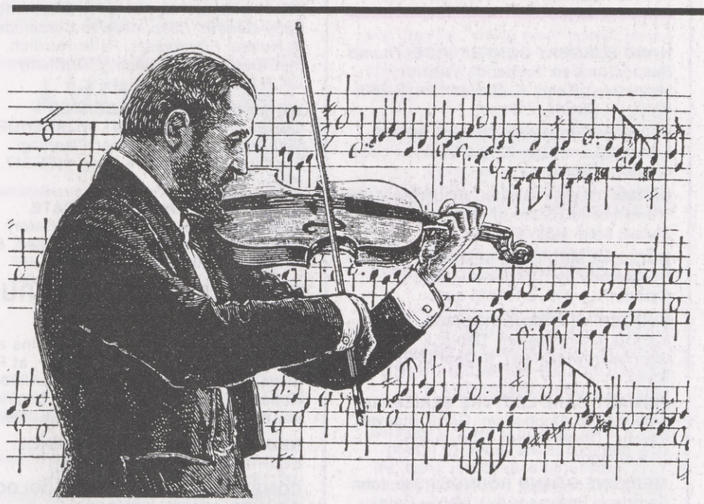
The UCSF Library has scheduled another two sessions of the "Basics of Searching MEDLINE" on Fridays, April 18 and May 16, from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Each seminar consists of a full day lecture/discussion followed by an optional three-hour practice session four days following the seminar. Upon completion of the course, participants may apply for individual access codes from the National Library of Medicine. Space is limited. Fee is $80. For further information call Carol Yates-Imah, Elisabeth Bell or Jim Mackie at x68253.

The Sixth Annual UCSF Olympics will be held on Saturday and Sunday, April 26 and 27, in the Millberry Union. Three teams of students—medicine, pharmacy and dentistry—will compete in innertube water polo, badminton, volleyball and ultimate ball. Interested students should contact their school's organizer: pharmacy—Pam Salas, x62732; medicine—Joe Wiseman, x61212; dentistry—Mark Bradford, x62712; or Alan Tower, x61800. The Olympics are sponsored by Millberry Union PRO.

DEADLINE

Deadline for the next issue of Today & Tomorrow, covering the time period Apr. 26-May 9, 1986 will be Tuesday, Apr. 15, 11 a.m. Please send your copy to Allen Balderson, News & Public Information Services, 532 Parnassus Ave., Rm. 300, x61541 or x62557.



A new health program for performing artists has begun at UCSF. The referral program is the first of its kind on the West Coast and provides musicians, singers, dancers and actors with direct access to health professionals experienced in treating their unique problems, both physical and psychological.

Many of the UCSF physicians involved in the new program are musicians themselves. "[This] adds to our sensitivity to their problems," says violinist, pianist and arthritis specialist Ephraim Engleman, MD, director of the Rosalind Russell Medical Research Center for Arthritis and one of the initiators of the program.

The program is designed to deal with many problems, such as tendinitis, spasms and fatigue, which result from overuse of certain muscles. Treatment can range from rest or changes in playing style to physical therapy. Some nerve entrapments respond to simple surgical procedures.

"Most problems are subtle, and might not be noticed," said musician and neurologist Michael Charness, MD, a member of the Ernest Gallo Clinic and Research Center at SFGH, who sees patients referred from the new clinic. "Musicians require such complex muscle control that a small problem can prevent them from playing."

The major force behind the program is violinist and psychiatrist Peter Ostwald, MD. He is author of the recently published psychobiography of Robert Schumann, Schumann: The Inner Voices of a Musical Genius (Northeastern University Press, 1986), and has for many years worked with teachers and students at the SF Conservatory of Music, helping those with performance anxiety, emotional problems and depression.

Ostwald has collected a list of 25 UCSF professionals interested in the health program. The list includes a jazz bass player, classical violinist and dentist who has treated mouth and jaw problems of musicians; a social worker and former dancer; an otolaryngologist who has treated numerous opera singers with strained vocal chords or polyps; a clarinetist, jazz saxaphonist and hand surgeon.

The new Performing Arts Health Program is located on the fifth floor of the Ambulatory Care Center, x67373.

Robert M. May, PhD, the Class of 1877 Professor of Zoology at Princeton, will present the Hitchcock Lecture, entitled "How to be a Parasite: The Dynamics and Control of Infectious Diseases," on Wednesday, April 30, from 2:30 to 4 p.m. in S 214.

Known as a gifted public speaker, May is a physicist, ecologist and epidemiologist who has won several honors, including the 1980 Weldon Memorial Prize from Oxford for his contribution to biometric science. His current research focuses on various aspects of the way parasites may regulate the size and distribution of natural populations in animals. His work includes initiating vaccination policies against rubella and childhood diseases in developed countries and chemotherapy programs against hookworm, schistosomiasis and the like in Third World countries.

May also has worked on the International Whaling Commission helping to formulate a new generation of models for management of whaling quotas.

As part of the Charles M. and Martha Hitchcock Foundation Lectureship, May also will speak at UC-Berkeley on "When Two and Two do not Make Four:

Speaker of the California Assembly Willie Brown is the keynote speaker at the western regional conference on "AIDS and Ethnic Minorities" to be held on campus Friday to Sunday, April 25 to 27.

Sponsored by some 20 local and national organizations, including the UCSF AIDS Clinical Research Center, the conference will include 14 workshops on AIDS and ethnic minority communities, including substance abuse, youth and AIDS, risk reduction, women and AIDS, treatment, mental health and AIDS and legal issues and insurance.

The conference is a project of the Third World AIDS Advisory Task Force, an advisory group to service providers addressing AIDS prevention, education and delivery of direct services to Third World communities in the Bay Area.

For registration information call Ernesto Hinogos, 864-4376.

NEWS BRIEFS

Nonlinear Problems in Ecology," on Wednesday, April 23, at 4 p.m. in Zellerbach Playhouse, and on "Ecological Aspects of Disease in Human Populations" on Tuesday, April 29, at 4 p.m. in Wheeler Auditorium.

An "earthquake" registering 8.3 on the Richter scale has hit the San Francisco Bay Area killing some 11,000 people and seriously injuring another 440,000. This is the scenario for a city-wide medical disaster drill to take place on Thursday, April 17, beginning at 9 a.m.

During the two-hour drill, some 120 "moulaged victims" will be transported by ambulance and MUNI to 16 major medical facilities, including UCSF, SFGH and the VAMC. UCSF will receive between 20-30 "victims."

In response to the simulated emergency, the campus will activate its own disaster plan. This will include setting up a Disaster Control Center in the administration suite of the Medical Center and a triage area in the Emergency Room parking lot where primary care physicians will assess the extent of injuries and direct the "victims" to appropriate campus patient care areas, including:

- Immediate Care, Emergency Department. For those suffering heart attacks, arterial bleeding, or who cannot breathe.
- Holding Area, physical therapy gym. For those in need of medical or surgical attention of a serious, but not an immediate nature.
- Expectant Area, part of physical therapy gym. For those expected to die.
- Ambulatory Care Center. For the walking wounded.
- Langley Porter. For those requiring psychiatric help.

Other areas to be tested during the disaster drill include a media information center at 532 Parnassus, a personnel pool in the Moffitt Cafeteria Golden Gate Room, and a public receiving area in the Millberry Union combined lounges.

The drill also will test the campus emergency walkie-talkie radio system.

Members of the campus community are reminded that this is a serious training exercise to test if the campus can effectively handle a medical emergency while continuing to care for patients already in our hospitals. All of those people who are not actively participating in the drill are asked to avoid areas of major activity.

Erick K. Erickson, vice chancellor, business and fiscal services at UCSF since 1966, will retire on July 1.

Erickson came to UCSF some 24 years ago as an accounting officer. He was appointed assistant to the Chancellor in 1963 and UCSF's first administrative vice chancellor in 1966.

The physical profile of the campus has changed dramatically under Erickson. He was directly involved with the fiscal planning for construction of the Health Sciences towers and with legislative approval for the School of Nursing, Ambulatory Care Center, School of Dentistry and Long Hospital buildings.

Erickson played a key role in helping to form the first campus Office of Community Planning, which gave neighbors a voice in expansion plans.

He was responsible for hiring UCSF's first affirmative action officer and organized UCSF's transportation program, including the shuttle and van pool services.

Pennsylvania State University pharmacologist Elliot Vesell, MD, will present the 1986 Samuel Hahnemann Lecture on Tuesday, April 22, at noon in S 1364. He will discuss "Pharmacogenetics: Individuality of the Human Response to Drugs."

Vesell is the Evan Pugh Professor and chair of the Department of Pharmacology at Hershey Medical Center at Penn State. He is the recipient of numerous honors and awards, most recently the 1985 Harry Gold Award in Clinical Pharmacology from the American Society of Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics.

The Lectureship is held every other year to honor Samuel Hahnemann, the late-19th-century physician who established the discipline of homeopathy. This marks the sixth year the lectureship has been held.

Animal activists have designated Thursday, April 24, as animal rights day for nationwide demonstrations at biomedical research institutions. UCSF has been targeted as one of these institutions. The animal rights activists have announced they will demand access to our facilities and will attempt to disrupt the research. Investigators are asked to take special precautions to ensure security of their laboratories and research records. Anyone whose lab is disrupted should call the UCSF police at x61414.

Vivian Wahlberg, RN, DrMedSc, nursing researcher at the Karolinska Institute in Stockholm, has been named the third annual Lucile P. Leone Distinguished Professor in International Nursing by the School of Nursing.

Wahlberg's research into the use of silver nitrite drops in the eyes of newborns to prevent venereal disease infections led to reduction of its use in Sweden, as the drops were found to cause pain, swelling, redness and secretions in the eyes. She will present a lecture on this research on Monday, April 14, from noon to 1 p.m. in Room N 617.

Wahlberg will present the actual Leone Lecture on "The Kangaroo Method" of caring for low-weight preterm infants on Monday, May 19, from noon to 1 p.m. in Room N 517. The Kangaroo Method makes use of the mother's warmth to act as a human incubator for a preterm baby, who is carried inside its mother's blouse. Wahlberg studied the phenomenon in Columbia and found that these babies had a much better chance of survival than those who were placed in incubators in a disease-ridden hospital. This method now is being used for preterm babies in Hammersmith Hospital in London and the Karolinska Hospital in Stockholm.

The distinguished professorship is awarded to a candidate who has made major contributions to international nursing. It honors one of the nursing profession's most influential leaders, Lucile P. Leone, who retired from UCSF in 1982 after serving as coordinator of School of Nursing international students and visitors for six years. Leone was the first nurse and first woman Assistant Surgeon General in the US Public Health Service.

Friends and colleagues of Saul J. Robinson, MD, clinical professor emeritus, pediatrics, will gather together on Thursday, April 17, to honor him on his retirement from active clinical practice.

The day's events will include dedication of Pediatric Grand Rounds at 8:30 a.m. in S 664. UCSF pediatricians Paul Stanger and Abraham M. Rudolph will discuss congenital heart disease—Stanger on "The Past 50 Years;" Rudolph on "Current and Future Status." A reception and invitational luncheon will follow rounds.

Robinson's association with the University began almost 60 years ago. He graduated from the School of Pharmacy in 1930 and first came to the Department of Pediatrics in 1946 as a clinical instructor. He has won several UCSF honors, including the 1977 Kaiser Award for Excellence in Teaching from the School of Medicine, the 1980 Faculty Teaching Award from the Department of Pediatrics for excellence in teaching house officers, president of the Medical Staff in 1980, the 1983 Charlotte Baer Memorial Clinical Faculty Award and most recently the UCSF Medal during this month's Founders Day activities.

Two UCSF young scientists have been named 1986 prestigious Searle Scholars—Cynthia J. Kenyon, PhD, presently at the Medical Research Council, Laboratory of Molecular Biology, Cambridge, England; and Dan R. Littman, MD, PhD, an assistant professor of microbiology/immunology, biochemistry and the Cancer Research Institute since July 1985.

Kenyon will come to the Department of Biochemistry in June to work on the genetics of development and differentiation in the nematode worm. Littman is studying the function of the CD4 molecule in activating T cells and implications for AIDS.

UC-Berkeley and UCSD each were awarded one Searle Scholar this year out of a total of 18 scholars.

All School of Nursing alumni have been invited to attend the school's Alumni Day Celebration on Saturday, April 26, in HSW 300. This year's theme is "A Look at the School of Nursing's History."

The day's events will include:

- 10:30 a.m.: Presentation of the Distinguished Alumna Award to Helen Chesterman, '28, former director of the SF Public Health Department, who helped establish an economic security program for California nurses.
- 11 a.m.: "The White Mortarboard: Continuity with Change." Marilyn E. Flood, associate dean, academic programs.
- 11:45 a.m.: Special luncheon hosted by Dean Margretta Styles in honor of members of the classes of '24, '45 and '50 in the School of Nursing mezzanine. Luncheon for all other alumni at Faculty/Alumni House.
- 1:15 p.m.: "Recollections from Alumni." Jean Chesbro Allen, BS'51, to preside. Panelists to include Helen Chesterman, '28; Esther S. Blanc, '34; Bernice Nelson Griffin, BS'47; Carol Larsen Hamilton, BS'56; Nancy Itsuyo Okamoto, BS'68, MS'73; Fay Bower, MS'66, DNSc'79.
- 3 p.m.: "Reflections from the Dean of the School of Nursing."
- 3:30 p.m.: Wine and Cheese Reception. Hosted by Dean Styles in School of Nursing mezzanine.

For further information call x64723.

Molecular neurobiologist Charles F. Stevens, PhD, will deliver the Seventh Leslie L. Bennett Lecture on Friday, April 25, at 3 p.m. in Cole Hall. He will discuss "Are Dolphins Smarter? Analysis of Cortical Folding in the Brain."

Stevens is professor of physiology and molecular neurobiology at Yale. He is internationally known for his work on ion channels in biological membranes and the way these channels make excitation and conduction for nerve impulses possible.

The lectureship honors Leslie L. Bennett, MD, PhD, a '40 UCSF graduate, who has contributed to the University over the last 45 years as an innovative scientist, outstanding teacher and able administrator. He established and was the first head of the Metabolic Research Unit, served as chair of the Department of Physiology for 13 years and was academic vice chancellor for 11 years.

HONORS & AWARDS

Lloyd H. Smith Jr., professor, medicine; associate dean, special projects & admissions, School of Medicine: Received the John Phillips Memorial Award from the American College of Physicians for distinguished contributions in internal medicine.

Alice J. Whitsell, associate specialist, pediatrics; director, reading & language development clinic: One of five women to be honored at the Fourth Annual Women of Achievement, Vision & Excellence Luncheon at the St. Francis Hotel, Apr. 22.

Donald I. Abrams, assistant clinical professor, medicine; assistant director, SFGH AIDS Clinic: Awarded an American Cancer Society Clinical Oncology Career Development Award for 1986-1989.

Michael P. Federle, professor, radiology; chief, Department of Radiology, SFGH: Invited to speak at the American Roentgen Ray meeting in Washington, DC, Apr. 15. He will speak on the radiology of AIDS.

PUBLICATIONS

Dan J. Tennenhouse, lecturer, family & community medicine & physiological nursing, School of Nursing: Author, California Health Care Law (Contemporary Forums Publisher, Danville, CA, 1986).

Ricardo F. Muñoz, associate professor, psychology: Co-author, Control Your Depression (revised edition) (Prentiss Hall Press, NY, 1986).

Rees B. Rees, clinical professor emeritus, dermatology & radiology: Designated Master in Dermatology of the American Academy of Dermatology. He is the first dermatologist west of the Mississippi to be so honored.

Francis C. Szoka, associate professor, pharmacy, School of Pharmacy: Named the Louis W. Busse Pharmacy Lecturer at the University of Wisconsin at Madison, Apr. 22-23.

Dennis Piper, associate director, development & external affairs, LPPI & Department of Psychiatry: Won a Merit Award in the Best Videotape for Patients/Community category of the Association of Western Hospitals Best of the West Healthcare Print & Video Communications. Piper is co-producer of the five-minute tape, "When You Need Help," an overview of emergency mental health care at LPPI.

IN MEMORIAM

Gwendolyn Dunn. She came to UCSF in 1967 as a clinical instructor, psychiatry, becoming an assistant clinical professor in 1969. Dunn worked with troubled students at UC-Berkeley and with severely emotionally disturbed clients at the Contra Costa County–Richmond Mental Health Clinic. Co-director of the California Women Lawyers Child Custody Project, Dunn also chaired the Task Force on Youth and Families, a group that planned mental health services for young people in the Sunset District. Contributions may be made to the First Unitarian Church of Berkeley or the American Cancer Society.

Wai So Chu, senior custodian, physical plant since 1971.

UCSF will join the national spring observance of the "Week of the Young Child," April 21-25. Mayor Feinstein has officially declared the week an annual citywide observance honoring young children and the people who care for them. Throughout the week there will be workshops, seminars and art exhibits.

The UCSF Child Care/Study Center is cosponsoring with the SF Department of Public Health a panel discussion entitled "Off to a Good Start," on Tuesday, April 29, from 3 to 5 p.m. at 101 Grove Street, Rm. 300. The discussion will be on health issues for young children, including accident prevention and AIDS and infection control. It is free and open to the public. For further information call x61616.

Nominations now are being accepted for the Kaiser Award for Excellence in Teaching. Medical students and housestaff are invited to use this opportunity to honor an exceptional teacher.

Ballots are available in the Student Affairs Office, S 245. Nomination deadline is Friday, April 18. For further information, visit Student Affairs or call Caity Gerhardt, x68076.

See a nurse in action during the Department of Nursing Services third annual "Spend a Day with a Nurse Program," May 5-9. Members of the Medical Center and the campus community are invited to spend one to two hours with a nurse on a hospital unit, one of the operating rooms, the Post-Anesthesia Recovery Room or the Emergency Room. Reservations may be made by calling x62252 from April 14 to 25.

The following week, the Nursing Service Affirmative Action Advisory Committee will host a reception for UCSF minority nurses and nursing students on Monday, May 12, 1-2:30 p.m. in M 286.

Pianist/vocalist Michael Feinstein will perform at a benefit for the Rosalind Russell Medical Research Center for Arthritis on Sunday, May 4, from 3 to 7 p.m. at a private home in Hillsborough.

Feinstein, who took San Francisco and New York by storm last year, will perform show tunes by Gershwin, Rodgers & Hart, Kern, Sondheim, Berlin and others.

All proceeds will go towards arthritis research. For tickets at $125 each call x61141.
